

POETRY

Dr. Kaustav Chakrabarti

Evening

The Evening Comes
In a slow motion
Far in the Horizon
Without Commotion
An occasional bird flies to its nest
To take a breather
From its hectic quest
The fields glow in the warmth of the Sun
The wheat stalks sway
Like a child full of fun
The Sun bids adieu to one and all
Sunset Time
As Evening Comes

About the Poet

Dr. Kaustav Chakrabarti is an Associate Professor of History at City College in the state of West Bengal, India. He has done his PhD on the Baghdadi Jewish Community of Calcutta from the University of Calcutta and has written books and articles on European and Islamic History for journals in India and abroad. He has also been a Visiting Research Fellow at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel, where he had done a project on European Jewish Immigrants to India between the two World Wars. He is an ex-Guest Faculty at the Department of Islamic History and Culture, University of Calcutta. Dr. Chakrabarti also spends his leisure in writing poems, some of which he had posted on blogs.